GENERAL REVIEW.

HON. R. W. DUNHAM, President:

Sir,—The past has been in some respects a remarkable year, the opening and earlier months of which were marked by a great degree of solicitude as to what might be its final outcome; and now in view of what that outcome has really been, it is not inappropriate to express congratulation on a result so much more satisfactory than could have been reasonably expected from the existing conditions. The country had enjoyed a protracted season of unexampled prosperity, resulting from abundant harvests, generally remunerative returns from labor and conservative methods in the prosecution of business enterprises, the necessity for the latter being deeply impressed on all by the sad experiences consequent upon the inflated condition of affairs and the exaggerated habits of the people which were recognized as largely responsible for the great collapse of 1873 with the succeeding years of stagnation, disappointment and hope deferred. From a condition bordering on financial vassalage to European countries, we had, by the exchange of the surplus products of the country, seen our burdensome debts held abroad, with their heavy drain for interest charges, rapidly melt away, and in addition there had been such an inflow of the precious metals as—in connection with the production of our own mines—to place us in the front rank of the nations of the world in respect to specie reserve. The results of the prosecution of agricultural industry in 1881, had not, however, been satisfactory. Not only had the grain crops proved a partial failure, but the great staple of the South, which enters so largely into our export trade, had also been seriously impaired, and it was clear that we should be only able to maintain a very greatly reduced volume of those exchanges which had so largely contributed to place the country in the position it had come to occupy. During the closing months of 1881, the tide of commercial exchanges began to turn, our exports were less and imports—largely of commodities to be immediately consumed and which left no trace of added wealth to the country—were increased; these conditions caused many careful students of the situation to feel that possibly we were approaching serious embarrassments, especially as there were not wanting evidences that we had been tending to the old, but easily forgotten, habits of extravagance, and even in some cases apparent recklessness in respect to business enterprises. Under such circumstances it might require but a moderate degree of real cause to precipitate financial disturbances which would be far-reaching in their effects. It was not, therefore, surprising that the unusual, and in many sections almost continuous rainfall in the spring and early summer should cause great anxiety in regard to such of the crops as are planted and cultivated during those months, as well as in respect to the autumn sown wheat, which was also seriously threatened by the same influences. Happily, however, the rains were stayed in time to permit this great crop to grandly mature and be saved in splendid condition, the out-turn proving to be unprecedentedly abundant and of superior quality. In fact, all the crops have finally turned out far more satisfactorily than could have been reasonably expected during the many dreary weeks of wet and cold. With the improved prospects in respect to the crops, and the healthful effects produced by a sense of apprehension of impending disaster, general business began to inspire a better degree of confidence, and gradually the threatening cloud passed away, not, however, without salutary influences on the general conduct of business affairs.

As illustrating the depressing effects produced by the crop returns of 1881 on the one hand, and the cheering tendency in contemplating those of 1882 on the other, the following estimates of the three great commercial crops of the past three years are submitted.

ESTIMATES OF THE U. S. AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

	Corn, Bushels.	Wheat, Bushels.	Cotton, Bales.

Percentages of Decrease	30 4-10	23 7-10	18 2-10
Crops of 1881	1,194,916,000	380,280,090	5,400,000
Crops of 1882	1,624,917,800	502,789,300	6,700,000

Percentages of Increase	36	32 2-10	24 1-10

Other crops have generally been more abundant in yield than those of the previous year, so that in respect to these most important matters, the country starts out on this new year under vastly more encouraging conditions than were those of a year since.

The food crops of Europe were, on the whole, better than those of 1881. Especially is this true of England, the best customer for our surplus. There is not, however, likely to be so large a diminution in the needs of the rest of the world as to render any surplus we may have burdensome, nor to very essentially reduce its marketable value. In fact (at this writing), it appears quite probable that owing to late damages by excessive rains on the continent and a severe winter in England, there will exist a good demand for all we may have to spare.

General commercial affairs throughout the country have been fairly prosperous but have been conducted with a good degree of caution, and on reduced margins of profit. In Chicago there has been quite a respectable increase in the volume of trade stimulated by the demands of a rapidly increasing population in the more newly settled portions of the country. A very large trade seems to be dawning upon the merchants of this city from the Southwest as settlement and development advance toward and into Mexican territory.

The trade in grain and provisions has been active throughout most of the year, but owing to small stocks and the surging tendency of speculation, without much regard to the basis upon which it was conducted, its prosecution has been rather extra hazardous. It seems difficult, or perhaps impossible, to so surround this immense business with safeguards as that no undue advantage shall accrue to either of the sides to the ceaseless contest between those who desire to operate with the expectation of a decline in prices, and those whose views are adverse. It may be admitted that this class of trading, when carried on recklessly, or with the intent to manipulate market values, in either direction, for the securing of a profit to result only by the success of such efforts, is an undesirable if not positively pernicious method of conducting business, and any device which will tend to hold speculative operations in reasonable check should be hailed as a most beneficent and wise measure; but there could scarcely be a more unfortunate general result to the agricultural interests of this country than would be produced by the elimination of the speculative element from the markets in which their products are sold.

To illustrate this point reference may be made to the fact that between July 1 and December 1 of the past year, a period of five months, nearly 18,500,000 bushels of wheat were received at Chicago. The greater part of this was undoubtedly pressed to market on account of the necessities of the producer to realize upon it as soon as he could possibly do so. Had there been no demand for this wheat except from those who desired to forward it immediately into the channels for consumption, it is morally certain that such a volume of supply would have carried prices to a far lower level than actually prevailed. Probably no class of operators contribute more to the sustaining of values in the general average of the year than those who, in the anticipation of a decline, contract to deliver in the future property which they do not at the time have in possession, as in such cases they must of necessity become competitors for the purchase of that which they have so contracted to deliver. If it were true, as many theorists seem to suppose it to be, that contracts for the delivery of property at a future time, at a lower price than prevails at the time of such contract or sale, tend to depress prices in the future, and thereby break down values for property yet to be marketed, it might be conceded without dissent that such operations were inimical to the interests of the producer. That this is not true in general, but on the contrary almost always has the opposite tendency, not unfrequently causing a very much higher range of prices than would otherwise exist, is patent to any careful observer of the course of prices for any considerable period when speculation is at all active. It is no extravagance to say that the so-called "short seller" is in a very important sense one of the farmer's best friends, and by his operations contributes very much to securing to the farmer a better average price for his products than would be likely to prevail were the influence of the demand created by his necessities eliminated from the markets. It is true that it frequently occurs that for a time exaggerated prices prevail, arising from a demand to meet maturing contracts or from the exactions of buyers for assumed damages claimed to result from the inability of sellers to secure property with which to meet their engagements. After this emergency, usually of short duration, has passed, prices are apt to fall off; sometimes largely, but very rarely to a point below what a consumptive demand will warrant. Parties who fail to get their property in market in time to avail themselves of the unnatural advance are quite inclined to feel that they have been wronged by the conditions which had caused it; and because the market has not been sustained at what they know was more than the property was worth without the influences resulting from over sales, are sometimes free in denouncing speculation as practically robbing them, not of what they had, but rather of something they had hoped to realize from the effects of the now condemned speculative influence. Until some evidence can be produced to show that speculation in the products of the country tends to reduce their value to the producer, it seems scarcely in order to entertain sentiments of great commiseration for him on account of his occasional failure to obtain for his property the extreme prices which may prevail as the result of causes in no way affecting the ordinary course of supply and demand.

For some reason, not readily and fully discernible to the uninitiated, the more important manufacturing industries of the country do not seem to be enjoying as good a degree of prosperity as is desirable, both for the employer and the employed. This is greatly to be regretted, as it seems to be conclusively established by the experience of the past few years that the active prosecution of home industries of this nature—employing over 5,250,000 operatives, with numerous other dependants—insures to the agriculturalist a far better market for his surplus productions than he could hope to secure from any other quarter. Perhaps no greater calamity could befall the country in an economical and financial sense than the general closing of our manufacturing establishments, with the consequent forcing of its immense number of operatives into agricultural pursuits, almost the only other channel in which they could hope to earn their daily bread, thus, to the extent of such changes of occupation, increasing the supply of food products, and at the same time diminishing the demand for them. The very nature of the case suggests the community of interests between these branches of industry, and it is quite impossible that one of these can suffer to any considerable extent without a reactionary influence upon the other. Local manufacturing interests have on the whole been prosecuted with increased vigor, and seem to be generally in a prosperous condition, except, perhaps, such as relate to the production of iron. This branch of manufacturing seems to be somewhat overdone, and in addition was greatly embarrassed throughout the country by the demands of operatives in the early summer. Whatever concessions were made in order to continue business seem only to have reacted in embarrassment to the proprietors.

The export trade of the country during the first six months of the past year was far less in volume and value than for some time previously, the partial failure of crops reducing the ability of the country to maintain the outflow of domestic produce to the extent it had attained in late corresponding months. The grand total of merchandise exports for the year ended June 30, was over $165,000,000 less than for the previous year, and the importations were greater by over $80,000,000. The returns for the last three months of the year, resulting from the better crops, show a much more favorable balance sheet. Notwithstanding the adverse changes in the balance of commercial movements the country was enabled to still continue to increase its stock of specie, the accumulation during the year being fully $30,000,000.

Immigration to this country, mainly from Europe, has been larger than ever before. The total number of immigrants arriving during the year ended June 30 was 788,992 and during the last half of 1882, 270,479. A remarkable feature of this movement is the very large number arriving from Germany, a class of persons who perhaps add as much to the producing power of the country as any other, and who very soon attain the position of intelligent and useful citizens.

The trade of Chicago in agricultural products has been less in volume during the past than in several of recent years, but in value it has been greater than ever before. The returns of most of the transportation lines of these movements have been cheerfully furnished, and in the main give evidence of being substantially correct. An exception to this courtesy must be noted in the case of the local management of the Louisville, New Albany & Chicago railroad, a new line commencing business independently from this city, in the early spring. No reports could be secured from this line of any movements prior to October 1, and hence the general returns are defective to that extent. This is the more noticeable from the fact that it was the first instance in which a railway management has not cheerfully complied with the reasonable request of this Board for such information, the compiling of which is of as much value to the general public as it can possibly be to the members of the Board. In the case alluded to the movement was not presumably large, and its absence from the tables herewith presented will not materially affect the value of the general compilation.

An estimate of the value of farm products shipped from this city during the year, based upon the returns received, is as follows:

Flour and Grain.....	$ 90,388,000
Live Stock.....	100,939,000
Meats, Lard, Tallow and Dressed Hogs	117,592,000
Butter and Cheese	17,114,000
Wool and Hides.....	24,778,000
Seeds and Broom Corn.....	9,358,000
Distilled Spirits, not including tax.....	2,451,000
Miscellaneous Products.....	9,924,000
A grand total of.....	$372,544,000

Corresponding estimate for 1881.....	340,675,000
Corresponding estimate for 1880.....	305,400,000
Corresponding estimate for 1879.....	252,152,000
Corresponding estimate for 1878.....	207,400,000

In making the above estimate for 1882, qualities and current values at times of shipment have been considered, calculations being based upon the best available information on those points.

FLOUR.

The receipts, as a result of the short crop of wheat of 1881, have been less by 637,327 barrels than those of the previous year, aggregating 4,177,912 barrels in 1882, against 4,815,239 barrels in 1881. Since August 1 the receipts of 1882 have exceeded by 141,810 barrels those of the corresponding period in 1881, leaving the first seven months of the year 779,137 barrels short of 1881. A noticeable feature of the history of the past year, and one illustrating the degree of economical improvement attained in the manufacture of Flour by the millers of the Northwest, is the fact that for a considerable portion of the year Minnesota millers were willing to pay very much more for wheat to meet their wants for pressing flour demand than the wheat itself would net to ship to this market and sell at prices claimed to be fully ten cents above its shipping value to any eastern or foreign market. Such a condition of things, if it continue to prevail, must inevitably greatly reduce the quantity of wheat marketed as such through the commercial centers of the country, and correspondingly increase the volume of flour manufactured near the points of wheat production. The steadily increasing favor with which American flour is received by the export trade is illustrated by the fact that while our exports of wheat in 1882 were less by over eight per cent than those of 1881, the export of flour was greater by over ten per cent, the increase being mainly to Great Britain. Owing to the inferior quality of much of the wheat grown in 1881 an unusual percentage of unsound flour appeared in the market, and was an embarrassment to the trade until it was finally worked off at more or less of a sacrifice. The improved processes of manufacturing flour are rapidly superseding those previously in use, and evidently to the satisfaction of consumers and the enhanced profits of millers.

WHEAT.

The general course of the trade in Wheat during the first half of the year was exceedingly unsatisfactory. Receipts of No. 2 Spring, at that time the speculation grade, were less than 500,000 bushels, but upon this slender supply and the stock on hand at the beginning of the year speculators for a decline sold for delivery before the new crop could reach the market many times the quantity they could possibly deliver. The result of such recklessness could only be unsatisfactory, and the complications growing out of the settlement of these obligations so thoroughly demoralized the trade that for several months comparatively little was done in operations of that character. Parties complained of alleged injustice in attempts to hold them to the letter of their engagements entered into with a reasonable certainty that they could not be met, while those to whom they had agreed to deliver the property practically insisted on making their own terms of settlement. The receipts of all kinds of Wheat to July 1 were but little over 2,700,000 bushels, confirming the estimates of deficiency in the crop of the Northwestern States for 1881. The new crop of Winter Wheat began moving to this market with great activity in July, the receipts of that month far exceeding those of any July in the history of the trade, nearly 2,500,000 bushels of which was a very superior quality of Red Winter Wheat. The aggregate receipts of the year have been 23,008,596 bushels against 14,824,990 bushels in 1881. Prices of No. 2 Spring, mainly based on speculative operations, were very strong until the close of July, ranging between \$1.20 $\frac{1}{4}$ in February and \$1.40 at the close of April; the latter, however, was paid but for a single day. The general course of the market since the new crop began to arrive has been downward, the average of sales of both No. 2 Red Winter and No. 2 Spring being less than one dollar per bushel, closing at about 95 cents for No. 2 Red and 93½ for No. 2 spring. The receipts of the year have been about 2,000,000 bushels greater of Winter than of Spring, the former being drawn largely from Kansas and Missouri and from Illinois, which is credited with a production of over 50,000,000 bushels of Winter Wheat besides over 2,000,000 bushels of Spring, exceeding by nearly 7,000,000 bushels the product of any other State, and the second largest crop it has ever grown. The export movement from Atlantic ports has been about 9,000,000 bushels less than in 1881, and from the whole country nearly 10,000,000 less. The exports from the old crop were very light, but since July 1 have been nearly 16,000,000 bushels greater than that for the last half of 1881. It would seem, if the crop estimates are approximately correct, that, after making due allowance for the restoration of depleted stocks to their normal condition, there must be still large quantities of wheat remaining in producers' hands.

CORN.

There has been a very marked decline in the movement of Corn through this city, resulting from the very deficient crop of the Western States in 1881. The aggregate was only 49,061,755 bushels, over 29,000,000 bushels less than the previous year, and but little more than half those of 1880. The range of prices for No. 2 Corn has been from 49 cents per bushel near the close of the year to 81½ in July. From January 1 to near the middle of July there was a gradual general advance, with some weakness in February, before the development of unfavorable promise for the growing crop. The crop of Illinois proved much better than was anticipated during most of the growing season, but is generally of rather inferior quality. The same is true in the main of Iowa, while Nebraska and Kansas have very abundant crops of superior quality. The crop in the Southern States was generally good, and the final estimate of the Agricultural Department places the year's production but little short of the greatest quantity ever produced in the country. Owing to the small stocks and limited supply of wheat during the earlier months of the year the speculative transactions were largely transferred to Corn, and the trading in it has been very much larger than ever before; but for this there can be no doubt but that the average of prices would have been at a considerably lower figure than actually prevailed. The export demand, owing mainly to the high prices, has been quite small, aggregating only 15,389,658 bushels against 72,483,401 bushels in 1881 and about 111,500,000 in 1880. Near the close of the year, under reduced prices, some improvement in the export demand occurred, but as Great Britain produced an extraordinarily large supply of feeding crops, it is hardly probable there will be a very active demand for Corn for that market unless prices rule as low or lower than at the close of the year.

OATS.

The receipts of Oats have been 26,802,872 bushels, nearly 2,000,000 bushels greater than ever before. The crop of the country in 1881 was the second largest ever produced, but owing to the scarcity and high price of corn the demand was very active and at prices, until the new crop came in, materially higher than since 1875. No. 2 mixed opened in January at a trifle under 45 cents per bushel, and advanced, with occasional backsets, until the first of August, the highest price reached being 62 cents at the close of July. Since the new crop appeared freely in the market values have been lower but still very remunerative to the producer. The lowest point reached was 30½ cents in September, closing at about 40 cents. The crop of 1882 was very large, aggregating about 475,000,000 bushels or nearly 60,000,000 bushels in excess of that of 1881. Very much the largest increase is in Illinois, that State being credited with a production of nearly 100,000,000 bushels—about fifty per cent greater than its crop of the previous year, something of a compensation for its unsatisfactory corn crop.

RYE.

The receipts of Rye have been 1,984,516 bushels, against 1,363,522 in 1881. Prices have declined steadily, with but little reaction, from 95@96 cents in January to 57½@58 at the close of the year. Stocks held in store in this city were very much larger than the previous year, until the new crop began to move; at the close of the year it was about the same as a year since.

BARLEY.

The movement in Barley through this city has been larger than ever before, aggregating 6,488,140 bushels. The bulk of the receipts of Western-grown Barley have inspected below No. 2, as usual, and as this grain is more largely sold by sample than any other, quotations are less accurately attainable. No. 2 in store sold in January at 105@108 cents per bushel; No. 3 at from 84@90, and both steadily declined until summer. Of the new crop, No. 2 has sold at from 80@90 cents, and No. 3 from 49@67 cents per bushel. Over 900,000 bushels was received from Canada during the year, the larger portion of which passed the Custom-House at the Detroit river crossing. The crop of 1882 was on the whole rather better than that of 1881—on an acreage something larger, the product being not far from 4,000,000 bushels greater. The Statistician of the Agricultural Department at Washington, referring to Barley, remarks: "It is a noticeable fact that the only cereal of which the United States never produces a supply for home consumption is the one which yields a higher value per acre than any other"—a suggestion well worthy of consideration by western farmers having lands adapted to its cultivation.

LIVE STOCK AND MEAT PACKING.

Although the number of animals arriving at Chicago during 1882 has been somewhat less than the previous year, their aggregate value has been greater, as is shown by the report of the Union Stock Yards Company, the figures being as follows for the past five years:

Years.	Cattle and Calves, Number.	Hogs, Number.	Sheep, Number.	Horses, Number.	Aggregate Value.
1882	1,607,495	5,817,504	628,887	13,856	$196,670,221
1881	1,547,498	6,474,844	493,624	12,909	183,007,710
1880	1,382,477	7,059,355	335,810	10,398	143,057,626
1879	1,215,732	6,448,330	325,119	10,473	114,795,834
1878	1,083,068	6,339,654	310,420	9,415	106,101,879

In point of value, the Live Stock and Meat trade of the past year has been more than double that of Flour and Grain, this city now being more emphatically the headquarters of the trade in these than heretofore. The increase in the product of Cattle and Sheep in the Western States and Territories has been very marked during the past several years, and still promises almost indefinite expansion. The quality of the stock has been greatly improved, but in this respect perfection is very far from having been reached. No doubt greater care in the breeding of cattle will be attended with highly satisfactory results, not only in producing larger animals, but stock that will command materially higher prices for an equal weight. A very considerable movement seems to be promised by the introduction of English capital in the establishment of cattle ranches in the Territories of the United States and in portions of the Northwestern British Possessions. A very notable increase has occurred in the receipts of Sheep, but of those arriving at this point comparatively few are of really choice character. The receipts of Hogs have been less than in 1881, but Chicago has not in this respect lost any of its prestige as the leading market, both for the sale and packing of this class of stock. In 1882, Chicago packed over 48 per cent. of all the Hogs packed in the West—a considerably larger proportion than in any previous year. Owing to the high prices of corn, Hogs have been marketed more rapidly than would have been the case had their food been less valuable, and hence the supply of light and rather poor Hogs has been quite large. This will doubtless have some effect in reducing the supply for some time to come.

Prices of all classes of stock, and especially such as was well fattened, have averaged very much higher than in late years, and in some cases higher than ever before. After July, prices of cattle steadily declined, much to the relief of consumers, and at the close of the year ruled lower than in January. The highest point was reached about June 1. Hogs steadily advanced in price until about the middle of September, after which there was a gradual decline, closing somewhat lower than at the beginning of the year. Sheep have ruled somewhat higher than in 1881, but the advance has been less marked than in either Cattle or Hogs. The consumption of Cattle in the city, including packing in its various forms, shipments of carcass and parts of carcasses, has been about 661,000 head; of Sheep, 314,000, and of Hogs, 4,098,100. The exports of both Cattle and Fresh Beef, mainly owing to the high prices, have been very much less than in 1881; but at the close of the year the Fresh Beef movement had been revived, shipment in December being more than double that of December, 1881.

THE PROVISION TRADE.

The consumptive demand for Hog product has been very active throughout the year, and the trade has been exceedingly satisfactory. The great decline in the foreign demand has hardly been felt as an embarrassment, that for home consumption having absorbed the meat about as fast as it could be prepared for market. The export movement for the past two years has been as follows:

Years.	Bacon. Lbs.	Hams. Lbs.	Pork. Lbs.	Lard. Lbs.
1881 -----	550,929,038	57,010,572	94,431,880	310,195,218

Values for 1882 being $71,582,551, against $96,368,137 for 1881. The loss of so much of the consumptive demand as these figures indicate would be seriously felt on a full supply of product in this country, and it is hoped that by some means the true character of our meats may be better understood by the authorities and people of European nations, and that the unjust discriminations against them, based on unworthy motives, may, in the interest of their own people as well as ours, be speedily abandoned. Packers and exporters ought not, and reputable ones probably will not, object to a rigid inspection of all meat sent abroad, and it is a question whether it would not be for the best interests of the trade that our government should insist that such an inspection should be had before shipment or immediately on arrival abroad. That we have a superior quality of meats of all classes, every well informed person who has given the subject attention knows, and as it is clear that this fact ought to be impressed on European consumers as well as governments, our own government ought to take all necessary steps to that end. It is quite probable that some meats have been exported that have injured our reputation and furnished some basis for the crusade which has been inaugurated against all American meats. Reputable packers and exporters have suffered unjustly from the acts of less scrupulous persons, and as a result this very important branch of the export trade of the country has, in a large measure, been crippled. The speculative element in provisions has been very active, and it has tended to a higher range of prices than would otherwise have prevailed. With the decline in the price of Hogs late in the year meats and lard receded to fully as low a range of values as were current in January. The winter pork packing so far has been slightly in excess of the corresponding time a year since. A large trade in dressed beef, for consumption in the Eastern States, especially in the large cities, has grown up in this city and has greatly increased during the past year, promising to attain to still greater magnitude in the future.

SEEDS.

A very large and steady increase has occurred in the production of Seeds in the Western States within the past ten years, that of Flax Seed being especially marked, the receipts of the latter at Chicago during the past year reaching 4,923,091 bushels, nearly 1,000,000 in excess of 1881, and four times as much as in 1877. Prices of Flax Seed have ruled higher during the first half of 1882 than for the corresponding time in 1881. During the last half of the year they have been lower, closing at about $1.20 per bushel for choice. As high as $1.40@1.41 was paid in May and June. The crop of 1882 was far superior to that of the previous year, and of fine quality. The movement by lake, mainly in bulk, has reached over 2,800,000 bushels, the handling of this seed now being in substantially the same manner as grain. Clover Seed ruled dull and declining until it became apparent that the new crop was inferior, when the market advanced nearly two dollars per bushel from the lowest point of the year, closing at $6.30@6.75 for good to choice. Timothy Seed has steadily declined, with but little reaction during the year, closing at $1.55@1.70 per bushel, nearly $1 lower than in January. This crop was very large and of good quality. The stock on hand at the close of the year is large, probably exceeding 100,000 bushels.

OTHER FARM PRODUCTS.

No material change has occurred in the receipts of Butter and Cheese, from those of 1881. Prices, however, have ruled higher for both; quality about the same. The export trade in Dairy Products has largely fallen off, especially in Butter, the aggregate of which for 1882 was 7,637,249 pounds, against 21,220,341 pounds in 1881. Of Cheese the exports were 103,739,207 pounds in 1882, and 140,358,094 pounds in 1881. A very extraordinary occurrence in the history of this country was the importation from Great Britain of 4,400,000 bushels of Potatoes, a considerable quantity of which found their way to this city. The crop of 1881 in the United States was short in quantity about 70,000,000 bushels, and inferior in quality. The crop of the past year proved of better quality on an increased acreage of about 7 per cent. Until July prices of course ruled very high, reaching $1.70@1.75 per bushel in June. The imported sold somewhat lower, but met a good demand. Receipts from the new crop have not warranted the conclusion that it was very large in the Western States, prices at the close of the year ranging from 45@50 cents for the choice varieties. Receipts of Wool and Hides have both been less than those of the previous year, and prices of both have been upon a lower range. Other articles of farm produce have been handled by the merchants of this city in very much the same volume, and generally at satisfactory prices.

LUMBER, COAL AND COKE.

The reported receipts of lumber and shingles were both largely in excess of the unprecedented receipts of 1881, the former aggregating 2,117 million feet and the latter 933 million. Such inroads into our lumber supply as this product indicates, warn the country that the time may not be far distant when new fields of operation must be found, or some other material substituted for the many uses to which lumber in its various forms has hitherto been applied.

Stocks on hand in the city at the close of the year are larger than a year since. Prices have averaged higher than in 1881 and manufacturers have probably shared a good degree of prosperity. The receipts of coal and coke show a gradual increase year by year, the aggregate for the past year being 3,689,545 tons, which is more than twice the quantity received in 1878. Prices have ruled lower than in 1881. Receipts of Illinois coal have been larger, as have also been those by lake. Eastern railway lines have brought substantially the same as in 1881. A large percentage of the receipts by these lines is coke, used mainly by the manufacturing establishments of the city and vicinity.

DIRECT EUROPEAN TRADE.

A very large decline is noticeable in the quantity of produce shipped from Chicago to Europe on through bills of lading, the aggregate tonnage being but 332,297 tons, against 616,718 tons in 1881. This decline is mainly in grain and provisions, some other articles showing quite a respectable increase. A new article of export both from this city and the country, is Flax Seed, of which there was shipped from this city over 20,000 bushels. Foreign freights have ruled quite uniformly on a basis composed of the current freight to the seaboard and the ocean freight plus five per cent on the latter, and in the case of grain one and a quarter cents per bushel additional for transfer charges from rail to seagoing vessel.

TRANSPORTATION.

The past year has witnessed a substantial harmony between the railway lines to the seaboard in respect to freight rates. In June, 1881, the pool arrangement, which had been in successful operation for about two years, was practically disrupted, and until January, 1882, rates were more or less demoralized. On the 23d of January, a better understanding was arrived at, and thenceforward practical uniformity has been maintained. One new line has been opened to this city, extending hence to Cleveland; but late indications seem to dispel the conviction — if such was ever seriously entertained — that it would in any degree open a rivalry of substantial advantage in the interest of shippers and the general public. Another, understood to be in the direct interest of the New York, Lake Erie and Western (formerly Erie) Railway, is nearly completed. The advent of this line will probably be the signal for either a reorganization of pooling arrangements, or a disruption of those now existing. For several weeks near the close of the year a war of rates between the lines extending into Minnesota prevailed, and was carried on with much apparent bitterness, but was finally adjusted with results, during its existence, beneficial to producers to the extent they were able to avail themselves of the low rate. Lake freights have averaged even lower than in 1881. Rates hence to Buffalo have not touched quite so low a point as in the previous year, but the season of extremely low freights was more protracted, and at no time did they reach as high a point as the lowest which prevailed for the first two and a half months of the season of navigation in 1881. Erie Canal freights averaged somewhat higher than in 1881, but still have been very discouraging to boatmen. The action of the people of the State of New York at the late State election in authorizing the removal of all tolls for the use of the canal, is an act of justice to the people of the West fully appreciated, though tardily granted, and although the concession from toll charges current in late years is but small, still it is hoped that it may result in ensuring the maintenance of this great highway for all time to come as an important factor in the transportation problem of the country. The Enlarged Welland Canal is not yet fully completed, but already admits the passage of a larger class of vessels than formerly. Until this work is finally completed, its advantages to western commerce will not be fully demonstrated.

Ocean freights, owing to the light movement hence to Europe, ruled unprecedentedly low until after midsummer. In the spring months grain was taken for ballast to a considerable extent, and in some instances a small premium was paid for it for this purpose. The large transatlantic travel and immigration justified steamers in making their usual trips with little or no prospect of compensation for such outward cargo as they were compelled to carry for safety, and really not sufficient was offering for this purpose at any freight charge whatever. The withdrawal of a large number of steamers to the service of the British Government caused a sudden advance in freight rates, which were, on the advent of new crop movement, thereafter and well maintained.

For statistics of the details of the movements of property, current prices of various commodities, and other information on points presumed to be of more or less interest to yourself and the members of the Board of Trade, I beg to refer to statements herewith.

I am, Mr. President,

Your obedient servant,

CHAS. RANDOLPH,
SECRETARY.

During the past year no initiation fees have been received, nor is it probable any revenue from this source may be expected in the near future. The current market value of memberships in the Board is so far below what the initiation fee was previous to the large advance in that fee voted by the membership in October last, that it would seem to have been a quite unnecessary if not unwise measure to adopt, especially as it destroys all hope of securing the additional number of members which the Association expect to be amply able to accommodate on the occupation of their new quarters now in course of erection. The aggregate revenue of 1881, exclusive of initiation fees, was less by some $500 than that of the past year. Expenditures, not counting investments, have been nearly $15,000 greater than in 1881. This arises largely, as will be observed, from extraordinary expenses incident to legal proceedings in which the Board has necessarily become involved, Among the causes pending in court, to which the Board has been made a party, may be noted the attempt to nullify the vacation of that part of La Salle street upon which the Board had proposed to erect its new Exchange building, proceedings to overthrow the decisions of its official committees, and numerous suits designed to affect the disposition of memberships in the Board for the benefit of creditors of individual members. Your Board of Directors have felt it a duty,—in which they presume the membership will concur,—to defend these memberships against the assumption that they are property subject to be disposed of as available assets, at least until a final decision on a fair test case shall have been obtained. Such a case is now pending on appeal to the Supreme Court of this State, and a final decision may be expected within a short time. It is believed that no suit at law was ever instituted by the Board of Trade, and it certainly has no desire for litigation; but, if it be assailed, it would cease to be respected if it did not assert and endeavor to maintain its dignity and supposed rights. At the present time it is made defendant in a numerous brood of suits instituted by parties engaged in trading on the fluctuations of the market prices of commodities dealt in on the floor of the Exchange. These persons set up the claim that they have a right to all information in respect to current transactions among the members of this Board, upon which information, hitherto secured through telegraphic communication with the exchange room, they have conducted an enormous amount of so-called business, the basis of which is nothing more nor less than a wager as to the future fluctuations in the prices of those commodities. To say nothing of the injury to legitimate business which these places are inflicting upon the country, the so-called “bucket-shops,” which are numbered by hundreds, have become a stench in the nostrils of all good citizens, who have observed the demoralization wrought among the young and the unfortunate, who are tempted by the allurements of a chance gain to invest their scanty means in this most vicious system of trading in nothing but the change of prices, the basis of which they can know nothing of. Your Directors cannot believe that the courts of the country will sustain the pretension of these people that they have the right to practically enter the rooms of this Association against its will for the purpose of procuring facilities with which to continue so disreputable a business.

The building enterprise of the Board, as appears more fully in the report of your Board of Real Estate Managers, is being pressed forward with commendable vigor, and it is hoped that within little more than a year hence you may be in possession of the new quarters, the necessity for which is daily becoming more apparent to us all.

As required by the Rules, the annual assessment on members for 1883 has been fixed at twenty dollars each.

The membership remains the same in number as a year since, although many changes have been made by transfer in the personnel of the membership. Ten, who were among our number at the last annual meeting, have been removed by death—a much smaller number than the average of late years.

The past year has been one of marked uncertainty in the prosecution of business with most of our members, calling for an unusual degree of care and discernment, and although but few serious embarrassments have occurred, the average result has not been as satisfactory as in many previous years. The crops of 1881 in the West were a partial failure, the result of which appears in diminished receipts from those crops at this point. Speculative operations on orders to our members seemed to be forwarded regardless of this important fact, and on repeated occasions it was found that the mass of these dealers had contracted to deliver property which they were utterly unable to procure. The result was unsatisfactory in respect to the settlement of their obligations, and our rules touching such contingencies were overthrown as being in their application unsuited to such occasions. It is to be hoped some new or improved system may be devised by a committee now having that subject under consideration, which shall operate more satisfactorily than those which have been discarded. Your Directors are clear in the conviction that no rule of the Association which in any degree seems to invite the defaulting on contracts for the delivery of property ought to be tolerated by the Association or would receive its sanction as a medium of adjusting controversies which are liable to arise in the prosecution of so large a volume of business as is conducted under the auspices of this body.

The crops of 1882 were as an average so bountiful that we can confidently anticipate a prosperous year for the membership, and your Directors take pleasure in congratulating you on the auspicious opening of the new year, the ending of which we trust may find you all prosperous, contented and happy.

Respectfully submitted by vote and on behalf of the Board of Directors.

R. W. DUNHAM, President.

NOTE.--Up to 1850 only the aggregate valuations in the several counties were reported to the State officers, and from 1852 to 1857 inclusive, a few counties returned only the aggregates; hence the details of Real Estate and Personal Property valuations are not complete for those years. In 1867 and 1868 the details of valuation are not entirely correct, owing to changes by the operation of the equalization law; since 1868 the valuations are as equalized. The total valuations in each of the several years are entirely correct and official.

The valuations for 1873 as equalized are largely in excess of any previous year. In 1874 some changes were made in the manner of equalizing the assessments, resulting in reducing all the valuations, but especially that of Railroad Property. Valuations for 1882 are but little if anything over twenty-five per cent of the cash value of the Real Estate, and even less on the Personal Property owned in the State.

The State Debt, as noted, represents it as it stood on the 1st of January in each of the several years to 1869; in 1869 and 1870, as it stood December 1; in 1871, as it stood December 31; from 1872 to 1879, as it stood December 1.

PRICES OF HIGHWINES.

The following shows the current prices or assumed value of Highwines for each week during 1882. In reality very little, if any, Highwines, as such, are now sold in the Chicago market. Prices of the various classes of the Distilled Spirits, including Alcohol, are, however, made upon the basis of a valuation for Highwines, and during the year quotations for all forms of Spirits not rectified have been based upon a valuation for Highwines as indicated below.

NOTE.—In the above Receipts and Shipments of Lumber by Rail the greater part is calculated on the basis of three pounds per square foot, nearly all the roads reporting by weight. This may be somewhat too high a weight per foot, as no clear calculation can be made of the proportions of dry and green lumber, but it is not sufficiently erroneous to account for the Lumber reported received after allowing liberally for city consumption, and it seems probable that the Receipts by Lake are somewhat over reported. Probably considerable quantities of Shingles are reported as Lumber in part car loads, which, if true, tends to still further complicate the subject.

Freights by Sail to Kingston have ranged at from 4¼@5½c. per bushel on Corn, and 4½@6¼c. on Wheat, with a lighter movement than in 1881.

ALL-RAIL FREIGHTS EASTWARD.

There has been less fluctuation in freight rates by all-rail Eastward than in several years. The several lines have been operated in harmony since January 23, when the rate to New York was made 40 cents per barrel on Flour, 20 cents per 100 lbs. on Grain, and 25 cents per 100 lbs. on Provisions. March 13 these rates were advanced 10, 5 and 5 cents respectively, and on December 1 again advanced to 60, 30 and 35 cents, and remained so until the close of the year. January 1 to 23 rates were irregular and not uniform by the different lines, but all on a lower range than the rate established at the latter date. Rates to Boston have been upon the basis of 5 cents per 100 lbs. over New York rates, to Philadelphia 2 cents and Baltimore 3 cents less than to New York.
